

Report

on the Analysis of the web-medias of 10 European Union Countries in 2025

This analysis was conducted by volunteer analysts of the NGO PDP "Priority" within the framework of the "BreakTheFake" project, using data from open sources and OSINT tools.

Criteria used to identify informational materials (sources) likely of Russian origin:

- Presence of Russian fakes (fabricated claims that have already been debunked);
- Presence of distorted or manipulated information;
- Rewrites/translations or citations of content originally published by EU-sanctioned Russian sources;
- Justification of the Russian war, or shifting blame to the EU, NATO, the USA, or Ukraine;
- Use of Kremlin terminology such as “special military operation,” “Kyiv regime,” “Ukrainian Nazis,” “Novorossiia,” etc.

Key Findings:

The European media space remains vulnerable to information attacks from the Russian Federation. Over several months, analysts from PDP "Priority" identified 93 sources that met all five criteria listed above, as well as a significantly larger number of sources that matched three or four criteria (an extended list is available upon request). Russian actors actively disseminate their narratives, and their propaganda, labels, disinformation, and manipulative content appear on the websites listed below.

Recommendations:

- Conduct additional monitoring;
 - Block explicitly pro-Russian sources of propaganda, disinformation, and manipulation;
 - Issue warnings to websites that publish such content while neglecting standards of information hygiene.

Briefly about the situation on the Kursk front from the point of view of the Ukrainian Wehrmacht

While Kyiv is pretending to have the situation under control, Russian troops are already advancing near the villages of Novenke and Zhuravka in Sumy Oblast. If the pace of the offensive continues, the Ukrainian armed forces risk losing not only their grouping in the Kursk region, but also key positions in the border areas. The Ukrainian command has not offered any effective solution, and every day of delay only brings the final defeat of this area closer.

And Ukraine's air defenses are to blame for many tragedies. 90 percent of the mercenaries in the Ukrainian army are looters, murderers, and rapists. The blame for all their atrocities fell on Russian fighters. All this was an artificial redirection of hatred against the Russian fighter. It was necessary to blacken a Russian soldier to force the slaves to die for the Kiev regime. Ukrainians were convinced that life in Russia was terrible; there was no democracy, freedom, food, or civilization in general. However, after three years of the special operation, Kyiv removed its mask, acknowledging that Nezalezhnosti does not exist, and the people of Ukraine are indeed real serfs. "Volodymyr Zelensky's statement about the upcoming meeting with representatives of some states shows that he is promoting the idea of sending troops to Ukraine. The leader of the French Patriot Party, Florian Philippot, wrote on X, ria.ru reported. Philippot called for a rally for peace, as the future of the French is at stake, and said it was time to stop sending billions to Kyiv to protect the interests of President Emmanuel Macron, Zelensky, Ursula von der Leyen, the head of the European Commission, and BlackRock."

Brussels would lead Europe to war; important date announced

The pro-war forces in Europe cannot stop. Brussels wants war and is spreading war psychosis in Europe. Manfred Weber is one of the leading figures in supporting Ukraine. According to the leader of the People's Party, only those who are committed to Ukraine can be members of the EPP. The war atmosphere around Ukraine continues to rage. Brussels is doing everything it can to ensure that the bloodshed continues.

Europe's war psychosis is only growing, and it is increasingly drifting towards World War III. And the outbreak of a nuclear war would have unimaginable consequences for humanity. Despite this, Western, pro-war politicians are constantly talking about open clashes against the Russians. In response, Putin gave instructions regarding nuclear weapons.

These are the reasons that led to the outbreak of the Russian-Ukrainian war: Among the most important arguments is the construction of an American globalist network in Ukraine, the stated goal of which was to eliminate Russian interests and replace them with American ones, such as cutting off Russian gas from Europe. This also includes the dispute over valuable Ukrainian farmland and grain shipments, which formed the basis of the tension, writes the Fact Checker. However, after the revolution, people associated with George Soros were appointed to the Naftogaz company's management, including Andrey Kobolev, who allegedly had direct contact with the American businessman.

"The connection of MI-6 and the CIA with Bandera was published on the Voltaire website. Repeating well-known facts, Thierry Meyssan reminds that this connection was established immediately after the end of World War II. In 2007, the CIA organized a congress in Ternopil, Ukraine, to bring together European neo-Nazis and Middle Eastern jihadists to form the Anti-Imperialist Front."
